ROMANCE OF FIGURES.

The World in Fascinating Statistics.

A remarkable survey of the commercial and financial status of all the principal countries of the world has just been compiled by the Washington Bureau of Statistics, one of the most useful of the American Government offices. From this bureau emanates an endless stream of information, carefully prepared, to keep American men of business in touch with all the changing conditions of the world.

The survey in question concludes with a table which must almost hold the world's record for compression. For all the most important countries it gives imports, exports, commerce with the States, currency, revenue, debt, expenditure, area, and population.

THREE-CORNERED BATTLE.

Dealing with imports, the table shows that the United Kingdom imports a greater value of goods than any other country. Germany comes next, with the United States third and France fourth. As for exports, the United States take first place, very closely followed by this country, and Germany comes third. This meaning of these facts is that the trade supremacy of the world is being fought for by these three countries, the United States being the one of the three whose exports are greater than the imports.

These countries are the best customers of each other. The United States, however, get the best of the deal all round, selling us almost four times as much as they buy from us.

They also sell to Germany about twice as much as Germany sell them.

If the trade and influence of a country, depended on its population this table makes it evident that China ought to sway the world. There are 400,000,000 people in the Celestial Empire. British India comes next with 231,000,000, and Russia third with 128,000,000. Next in order come the following:—United States, 79,000,000; Germany, 68,367,000; Austrian Empire, 45,015,000; Japan, 44,204,000.

The United Kingdom is eighth on the list with 41,605,000. In all the statistics of the United States Bureau the United Kingdom is considered by itself without relation to the Colonies.

The population is carefully examined as to its density. Egypt is given as the most thickly populated country in the world, with 721 people to the square mile. Belgium takes second place with 586, and then the Netherlands with 406. The United Kingdom has 238 to the square mile, and the United States only 26.

SPARSELY POPULATED.

At the other end of the list comes Canada as the most sparsely populated country in the world. In the Dominion there is only an average of one person to the square mile. Australia is little better off with an average of 11. Argentina comes next with 3.

The country with the greatest extent of territory is Russia, according to this table, with over eight and a half million square miles. China is given as the nearest approach to this with four and a quarter millions. Brazil is third, with three and a quarter millions, closely followed by Australia and Canada, each of which has territory extending over three million square miles.

If the British Empire be taken as a whole it leads the way easily with an area of almost twelve million square miles. This would have been a fairer computation, as the whole of the Russian dominions are included under Russia.

Taking the year 1901 as a basis, the richest countries are given in the following order:—Russia, France, the United States, the United Kingdom, and Germany. France has a heavier debt per head than any other country, and Russia comes second in this respect.

Phrasing everything on a basis of population, Holland imports more for each head of population than any other country. Holland also exports more per head. Australia has a heavier debt per head than any other country, but also a greater revenue per head.

For each person in the country Australia has most gold, Spain most silver, and Argentina most paper money. France has more money—gold, silver, and paper taken together—per head than any other country. —Daily Express.

WHAT HAVE WE DONE TO-DAY?

We shall do so much in the years to come, But what have we done to-day? We shall give our gold in a princely sum, But what did we give to-day? We shall lift the heart and dry the tear, We shall plant a hope in the place of fear, We shall plant the words of love and cheer, But what did we speak to-day?

We shall be kind in the after-while, But what have we been to-day? We shall bring to each lonely life a smile, But what have we brought to-day? We shall give to each a grander birth, And to each a faith a deeper worth, We shall feed the hungering souls of earth, But what have we fed to-day?

We shall reap such joys in the by-and-by, But what have we sown to-day? We shall build us mansions in the sky, But what have we built to-day? The sweetest of dreams to each, But here and now do we do our task? Yes, this is the thing our souls must ask, What have we done to-day? —Nixon Waterman.

ANECDOTES OF THE CLERGY.

A Cornish clergyman, having allowed his church to get into a state of disrepair, was ordered to restore it. He commenced with the sounding-board over the pulpit, on completion of which he took his garden into the church in order to test it. Having placed the man in a remote corner the parson mounted the rostrum and read the lesson for the day. "How does that sound, James?" "Sounds very well, minister," "oared every word," replied the gardener. "Now, James, you change places with me and say something." Nothing loth, James ascended the pulpit stairs, and this is what he said: "Haven't had any wages for a month. How does that sound, minister?"

Here is the latest method of taking leave of a valued pastor. A Wesleyan minister in Cornwall was taking leave of an old lady of his congregation on the expiration of his three years' residence. "Well, good-bye, Mrs. A." "Good-bye, sir," said the old lady; "the Lord never takes a good thing away without sending a better in its place!"

Cornish local preachers sometimes give their opponents powerful homiletics. On one occasion a local brother was dealing with the alleged necessity for an "educated priesthood" upon which the clergy of the Established Church were always insisting. He naturally did not recognize this necessity, and proceeded to illustrate his point by a reference to the Apostle Peter and Paul. "Was St. Peter an educated man?" he asked. "No," said he; "he was a poor fisherman. But what happened when he preached? Why, thousands were converted. Then there was St. Paul; now he was educated, for we are told that he sat at the feet of the great Gamaliel. But what happened when he preached? Why, a young man in the gallery went to sleep, and tumbled down and broke his neck!"

There is a parish in Cornwall called St. Eval. A young student was up before Canon X. to undergo an examination prior to ordination. When the business was over, the Canon asked where the young man was going after ordination. "To Cornwall, sir," replied he. "Oh, indeed? I know Cornwall very well. What parish are you going to?" "To St. Eval (commonly pronounced Sundeval), sir," replied the incontinent parson. "Dear me!" said the puzzled and slightly shocked divine; "I knew that Cornwall was a county where there were many saints, but I never knew that they had canonized him!" —Sir Richard Taugie, in Chambers's Journal.

"Tax Health and Vigour of an individual depend upon the quantity and quality of the Blood. When the tissues have been cut, there are thrown into the blood, waste products, and these are not eliminated but (through any cause) retained in the blood they influence nutrition and function and finally produce organic disease." —The Humanitarian. In cases of Scrofula, Eczema, Bad Legs, Skin and Blood Diseases, Eruptions and Sores of all kinds, the effects of Clarke's Blood Mixture are marvellous. Thousands of wonderful cures have been effected by it. Clarke's Blood Mixture is sold everywhere, at 2s. 6d. per bottle. Beware of worthless imitations and substitutes.
